B. National Intelligence Survey

1. NIS production has been above the level of a year before. During the reporting period, NIS production was increased by the non-USIB and CIA units staffed to assume NIS production responsibilities formerly assigned to the Department of State, and by DIA as successor to former production by the individual services.

2. The NIS Committee has begun expedited implementation of measures to streamline and accelerate NIS coverage. The Committee has approved an FY 64 Production Schedule which provides for a 50% increase -- from 12 to 18 -- in General Surveys (formerly Chapters I - Brief). In the interest of more rapid and timely maintenance with the capabilities allocated, the FY 64 schedule concurrently reflects an increased selectivity in the production of detailed units supplementing the General Surveys.

3. The number of NIS units produced to date now totals about 6,300 of which approximately 1,700 have been maintenance revisions of previously published units.
